A native English speaker who also speaks fluent German, Michele Cueni offers insights and guidance that lead executives to think differently about their organizations and achieve desired individual, team, and organizational results.

Michele Cueni is an engaging speaker who challenges her audiences to consider their approach to leadership in the 21st century. She stimulates their thinking, and encourages leaders to reflect and hold themselves accountable.

Michele is one of the most experienced consultants and coaches within the FranklinCovey team in Switzerland, Germany, and Austria. Her training is interactive, and she uses multiple techniques to encourage participants to learn, reflect, and grow both personally and professionally. Drawing from her broad international experience and business skills, Michele creates and delivers valuable solutions to leaders in many different industries, cultures, and levels, especially top executives in an international environment.

Having studied Strategic Administrative Management, Michele has been active in the training industry for 20 years. She has undertaken many major programs for multinational clients around the globe, including government and military organizations, with a particular focus on multinational Swiss organizations. Michele works intensively with many top-level executive committees of multinational organizations and has gained their trust by supporting them in rolling out major strategic initiatives.
